

Could you be a Patient Research Ambassador?

Do you have:

- Experience of taking part in a clinical trial
- Enthusiasm for supporting clinical research
- The ability to increase awareness about clinical research to other patients, carers, members of the public and healthcare professionals

"If you are thinking of getting involved I would strongly recommend it. It is great to feel that you are giving something back and helping in a small way".

Sammy, Patient Research Ambassador

You could help by:

- Increasing awareness of research via events at your local NHS trust
- Reviewing promotional material and documents
- Giving your feedback on surveys designed to assess the patient research experience
